I. Introduction

1. The present report is the nineteenth consolidated report on the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms issued by the Secretary-General since the establishment of the Register.[1] The General Assembly, in paragraphs 3 to 5 of resolution 64/54, called upon Member States to provide annually their data and information on international transfers of major conventional arms covered by the Register, including "nil" reports, and additional background information.

2. On 3 March 2011, the Office for Disarmament Affairs sent a note verbale to Member States requesting them to submit their reports no later than 31 May 2011. The replies received are reproduced in sections III and IV and in the annex below. Any further national reports and additional information received from Governments will be issued as addenda to the present report.

II. Information received from Governments

3. Information received from Governments is presented below as follows.

(a) Section II, which includes:

(i) Part A — an index of information received by the Secretary-General;

(ii) Part B — individual replies of Governments on transfers of conventional arms;

(b) Section III, which contains background information submitted by Governments on military holdings and procurement through national production;

(c) Section IV, which includes background information submitted by Governments on the international transfers of small arms and light weapons;

(d) An annex, containing the views of Member States is provided in response to paragraph 6 (b) of General Assembly resolution 64/54 on "whether the absence of small arms and light weapons as a main category in the Register has limited its relevance and directly affected decisions on participation".

4. The originals of the replies from Member States are available through the Office for Disarmament Affairs. The annual reports and other relevant information on the Register of Conventional Arms are available electronically on the Office's website (see www.un.org/disarmament/convarms/Register/HTML/RegisterIndex.shtml).

VII. Missiles and missile launchers	107 957	790

Notes: General Assembly resolutions 46/36 L (paras. 10 and 18), 47/52 L (para. 5) and 49/75 C (para. 4) invite all Member States to provide background information on relevant policies and national arms import and export procedures, both as regards arms transfers and the prevention of illicit arms transfers. Accordingly, previous United States submissions contained such information, which continues to be relevant.

The United States considers that its transfers of military equipment occur at the time the ownership title for the equipment is transferred between the United States and another country. The 2011 submission therefore includes equipment whose title was transferred during the 2010 calendar year.

The national point of contact for information related to the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms is the Office of Conventional Arms Threat Reduction, Bureau of International Security and Nonproliferation, United States Department of State. The phone number for this office is 1-202-647-0397, the fax number is 1-202-647-4232, and the e-mail address is UNRegister@state.gov.

Note: The table indicates values for both commercial and non-commercial international transfers of small arms and light weapons originating in Germany. No data on actual transfers in 2010 are available concerning information on commercial international transfers of small arms and light weapons. Therefore, data on licences granted for commercial international transfers of small arms and light weapons in 2010 are quoted as a best approximation. It should be noted that actual transfers can be lower than the licensing figures quoted. Data are provided in a manner that avoids double-counting of commercial transfers (e.g., at the time of licensing and subsequently at the time of actual transfer). Data on non-commercial international transfers of small arms and light weapons reflect actual transfers.

Note: This section of the annual report takes into consideration the fact that the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago is neither a manufacturer nor exporter of conventional weapons and/or small arms and light weapons.
Trinidad and Tobago firearms legislation has a section entitled "exports". This section is not defined according to the United Nations Programme of Action, but is in reality a "re-export" procedure, which allows persons to take firearms abroad. Most of these firearms are "re-imported" at the end of their activity and are reflected in the import section of this document.

Netherlands

The Netherlands firmly believes that the transparency in the field of armaments contributes to enhancing confidence, easing tensions and strengthening regional peace and security. Moreover, such transparency enhances responsibility in arms transfers. The Netherlands regards the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms as an effective mechanism to improve and promote transparency and confidence between States and regions.

To further augment the Register as a mechanism that promotes transparency and confidence, the Netherlands would be in favour of including information on the transfer of small arms and light weapons in the annual reports of the Member States to the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms. Transparency in the area of conventional arms, in particular small arms and light weapons, is an essential component in combating the uncontrolled proliferation of these weapons and in providing an atmosphere of confidence and security.
